

Revolutionize Your Intake & Treatment Plan Process

Hosted by Lisa Larson, LMFT

It's everything you should have learned in grad school but never did...

"This was an excellent class. I have been a clinician for over 30 years and felt my intake and treatment planning skills were pretty well-honed. However, after taking Lisa's course, I can say I feel my intake, assessment, and treatment planning skills have been up-leveled tremendously. Thank you!"

Her passion is healing the traumatized and mentoring other therapists to be outstanding clinicians. Her specialties are Brainspotting, family systems, couples, PTSD, and Positive Discipline.

Course Objectives:

Participants of this beginner to advanced level course will be able to:

1. Demonstrate the Intake process in a way that dramatically improves your client outcomes.
2. Identify an impactful and measurable treatment plan that can be referred to throughout treatment as you follow what the client chooses to work on each week.
3. Apply an Intake process designed for multiple modalities of therapy that is especially useful for trauma therapists.
4. Discover an easy way to set measurable therapeutic goals that can be reassessed throughout the process.
5. Determine a simple, yet comprehensive way of assessing childhood and adult traumas and current levels of disturbance for each experience.
6. Classify where self-worth and negative beliefs are most problematic for each client.
7. Identify the client's strongest resources that can be beneficial during therapy.
8. Discriminate how to diagnose accurately and safely.
9. Show how you & your client will never be lost in the process.
10. Choose which parts of the process fit best for your practice.
